Michele is an attorney and mediator with 20 years of experience in family law and business law. Having seen the impacts of litigation on her clients, Michele transformed her practice to provide her clients powerful and effective ways to resolve their disputes. Michele mediates cases involving divorce, custody, support and post-decree matters. She also mediates business law, breach of contract and general civil cases.

Michele graduated from Williams College in 1988, and from the University of Colorado School of Law and Graduate School of Public Affairs in 1997. Michele worked in the nonprofit and public interest sector for 9 years, where she practiced primarily family law and juvenile law. In 2006, Michele opened her own law firm, providing full-service transactional and litigation representation to small and medium sized businesses, as well as representation in domestic cases. In early 2017, Michele officially launched her mediation practice where she is passionate about helping people resolve problems the way they want to.

Giving back to the community and contributing to the quality of the legal system is important to Michele. She is Immediate Past Chair of the Colorado Bar Association's Solo and Small Firm Section, and she is a member of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Section, the Denver and Boulder County Bar Associations and the Mediation Association of Colorado. Michele also volunteers as a mediator with Court Mediation Services in Denver and with Jefferson County Mediation Services, where she received a New Volunteer of the Year Award in 2017.
