

Susan Demidovich has served as an independent contract mediator in domestic, civil, D&N, and truancy cases for JD18 ODR since April, 2001. Between JD18 ODR and her private caseload, Ms. Demidovich's mediation experience numbers well over 3,000 cases. Additionally, in November 2005, she added to her list of professional responsibilities the role of part-time Program Administrator for ODR. Her previous experience as Case Manager for FACE-to-FACE, a former non-profit community mediation organization which provided mediation for victim/ offender, neighborhood, and parent/teen disputes, provided her with an excellent background to effectively handle the demanding caseload, high conflict, and diverse population so prevalent within JD18 ODR cases. Ms. Demidovich holds a Bachelor's degree in English and Economics from Miami University and a law degree from the University of Cincinnati College of Law. She is a member and former Chair of the ADR Section of the Colorado Bar Association and serves as co-chair of the Ethics Committee of the MAC (formerly Colorado Council of Mediators (CCMO)). Prior to becoming a professional mediator, Demidovich was an attorney in private practice.
