

Bio

Rogelio Hernandez-Flores of Choice Mediation Colorado offers mediation services to help individuals navigate the complexities of divorce and civil claims within the judicial system. His mediation style draws on extensive experience with various levels of agreement-making and negotiation, from the evolving dynamics of bartering in Mexico's streets - to the formality of cross-border business negotiations, plea bargaining, and mediation agreements in the U.S. judicial system.

Rogelio's tactful and diplomatic interaction highlight his ability to communicate across differing perspectives. He encourages open dialogue to ease tensions and facilitate truthful collaboration with each party as holistic entities, regardless of their background, culture, language, gender, or race.

Complementing his life experiences in Mexico and the U.S., his qualifications include extensive experience as an ODR Mediation Contractor, seventeen years as a Certified Judicial Interpreter in Colorado, and a B.A. in Business Management from the National University, State of Mexico campus.

His participation in negotiation assignments and conflict resolution between the USA, Mexico, Japan, and other Asian countries heightened his awareness of the importance for parties in conflict to engage in authentic communication to assist them in finding resolutions through self-determination and informed decision-making; principals he upholds in his current mediation practice.
