

With a career spanning 27 years as a practicing attorney and over a decade as a mediator, Brent's career experience and penchant for problem solving keeps him focused on helping people resolve their disputes, so they can move on with their lives. He holds a degree from the University of Michigan and completed his legal education at DU Law School