

Miles Davies, JD
Mediator

I have been a mediator in the areas of Domestic Relations and District Court Civil matters with the Office of Dispute Resolution since 2001. I received my initial training in Alternative Dispute Resolution while attending law school at the University of Denver and began my mediation career shortly after passing the Colorado Bar in 1997. I have mediated several thousand cases over the intervening years and have presented locally and nationally on various Dispute Resolution topics. Presently, I serve on The Mediation Association of Colorado's ethics committee, and I am honored to help promote the important work the MAC undertakes for the mediator community and the clients that choose mediation as an alternative to court. Prior to commencing my full-time mediation practice, I was an attorney in the areas of Divorce, Employment and Landlord-Tenant disputes.
