

Bio

Rogelio Hernandez-Flores, of Choice Mediation Colorado, provides mediation services to navigate individuals through the complexities of divorce, civil claims, and the judicial system. Drawing on his experience in agreement-making and negotiation across various contexts, his approach seamlessly integrates insights from the dynamics of informal bartering and haggling to the formalities of cross-border business negotiations, plea bargaining, and mediation agreements within the U.S. judicial system.

His mediation style is marked by tact and diplomacy, prioritizing open dialogue to ease tensions and foster collaboration. Rogelio treats each participant holistically, cultivating an environment where diverse perspectives are respected, and challenges are addressed constructively. With seventeen years as a Certified Judicial Interpreter in Colorado and ten years as an ODR Contract Mediator, he proficiently facilitates effective communication across differing points of view.

Rogelio's academic credentials, including a B.A. in Business Management and Continuing Legal Education in Mediation, complement his practical expertise in negotiation and conflict resolution. His international experience in Mexico and overseas, further enriches his approach, emphasizing the importance of sincere, two-way communication in dispute resolution, empowering parties to self-determination and informed decision-making.
